

Feature Article.

Networks of Care for Probation Service

We are pleased to announce that the Network of Care for Probation Service has been added to our suite of Network of Care websites. In response to requests from our clients and thanks to a collaborative process between Trilogy Integrated Resources, Brian Cooley, and the Probation Department in Merced County, California, a one-stop web-portal for members of the probation community and the public they serve is now available and ready for use.

With the Network of Care for Probation, probation officers, individuals on probation, their families, and others connected with the justice system benefit from a deep bank of information and resources designed to assist those in transition from a facility to community living and to help individuals on probation as they work toward completing the terms of their sentence.

The Network of Care for Probation provides comprehensive information in one easy-to-use location. Resources include information about probation, laws, victims assistance, support and advocacy, news, health and family, and other subjects. We encourage you to review this new site by going to:

<http://merced.networkofcare.org/ps/home/index.cfm>

and to review the Networks of Care website please click on:

<http://networkofcare.org>